Opus X are four highly acclaimed classical soloists from all four corners of the world, unified by their talent and ambition to challenge the musical boundaries of classical and modern music. Their debut single, Libertango, produced by Grammy Award winner Steven Epstein, combines Opus X's musical virtuosity and uniquely sensual style to create a vibrant, edgy and fresh rendition of this modern classic.

“It is rare to find an ensemble comprised of incredibly talented artists that play as one combined, captivating force, presenting the listener with a fresh and imaginative approach to diverse repertoire”

Steven Epstein, Music Producer (17 Grammy Awards)

Opus X is Lone Madsen – Clarinet; Caroline Campbell – Violin; Tanja Zapolski – Piano; and Kristina Reiko Cooper – Cello. Graduates of the finest music schools in the world, including The Juilliard School in New York, the girls are currently working on their debut album. Between studio sessions and their busy solo careers, Opus X have dazzled audiences in Las Vegas, Los Angeles and The Middle East and plan to tour Europe in the next coming months.

Libertango was originally written and recorded by Astor Piazzolla in 1974. In the 1980's Grace Jones turned it into a huge hit with the single I've Seen That Face Before (Libertango) which was featured on her album Nightclubbing.

Libertango by Opus X to be distributed through Ministry of Sound on June 10th 2013.
